McKinley Resources Launches Over-the-Counter (OTC)

Active Ingredients Product Line

from McKinley Resources, Inc. – July 2016

The skin is the largest organ of the human body and, as the primary external barrier, is exposed to a high amount of physical and environmental stressors. Consequently, the skin is susceptible to a wide variety of disorders and diseases. Over-the-counter topical products containing active pharmaceutical ingredients (APIs) are an important factor in the management and treatment of many skin conditions.

McKinley Resources, a specialty raw material supplier, has worked diligently to establish strategic partnerships with API suppliers. As a result, the Company has now assembled a product line of high-quality over-the-counter (OTC) active ingredients for topical applications.

The McKinley OTC Product Line is recommended for anti-inflammatory, anti-irritant, anti-acne, anti-fungal, and topical pain relief applications. For more information, visit the McKinley Resources website at www.mckinleyresources.com.
